Which Foods Are Right For Me?

- The most common foods known to trigger reactions include wheat/gluten, milk, eggs, peanuts and tree nuts, soy, and shellfish. However, removing all of these foods may not be necessary. Testing can help pinpoint which foods are causing the reaction.
- Eliminating specific reactive foods can improve your symptoms.
- Knowing which foods may be a problem can help you and your clinician build the best diet for you rather than following fad diets or restricting foods unnecessarily.

How can Genova's testing help you?

- Genova offers an all-in-one test to provide a full picture of your immune system response.

- Every food test comes with a personalized summary of reactive foods. This can help your clinician develop a tailored food plan specific to your needs and symptoms.

- We offer an educational Elimination Diet to help guide you through steps and answer questions you may have about food elimination and reintroduction.
